TWO FIRES FROM DEFECTIVE FLUES

Fire Department no More Than Returns From C. L. Bates Home Until Another Call Comes In.

FROM WILLIAM EMSWELLER

Bates House is Practically Destroyed
at Loss of $1,500—About $400
Loss at Other.

The fire department put in a very busy morning, being called to the home of C. L. Bates, 616 West Tenth
street, and to the residence of William Emsweller, corner of Tenth and Harrison streets. The Bates home
was practically destroyed and the
damage to the Emsweller residence
amounted to about $400.

Both fires were caused by defective flues. The department worked under the very worst conditions, and
that any part of the two houses was saved is considered remarkable. The hydrant at the corner of Arthur and Tenth streets was found frozen at
the start of the Bates fire when the
pressure was turned on, the hydrant
gave way and burst.

The break in the main did not come
until the fire at the Bates home was
about out and when the department
went to the Emsweller place there
was scarcely any pressure. The break
in the main was discovered when Fire Chief Easley asked for more
pressure from the water and light
plant. At that time the pressure was
at 100 pounds and the men at the
plant realized there was a break.
Over thirteen feet of water was taken from the reservoir and the greater the pressure the greater was the loss of water.

When the alarm came in for the Emsweller fire, the firemen were engaged in gathering up the hose at
the Bates fire and went directly
there. The interior and roof of the Emsweller home was badly damaged.
The house is owned by Robert Innis
and the loss is fully covered with insurance.

The hydrant that was frozen had
been reported to the fire committee
along with all the others that are in need of repair. Because of weather
conditions it has been impossible to make the repairs. There are several other hydrants that are in need of
repair and will be fixed as soon as
the weather permits.

The fire department was hindered
greatly in the work of fighting the Bates fire by a frozen hydrant at the corner of Arthur and Tenth streets.
A line of hose was attached to this
hydrant, which is only a short distance from the house, and it was found that the plug was frozen. It
was necessary to run the line of hose
from Oliver and Tenth streets, which

SALE NETTED OVER $7,000

Horses at George Bell's Sale Averaged $200.

The largest crowd that has yet attended one of George Bell's horse
sales in Mays was present yesterday. Yesterday was the sixth annual sale. The prices received were considered above the average. The horses averaged about $200 a head.
The sale totaled $7,150.50, and Mr.
Bell was more than pleased with the success of the sale. Thirty-eight head of horses were sold. Buyers
were present from all over Indiana,
and a special train was run on the
L. E. & W., from this city and Newcastle.

GIRLS ARE BROUGHT HOME

Both Getting Along Nicely After
Taking Treatment.

Florence Martin, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Eli Martin, and Mamie Brock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Rude Brock, have returned home
from Indianapolis where they took
the Pasteur treatment after having been bitten by a mad dog. The two little girls have recovered from the effect of their injuries and are believed to be out of danger. The
treatment is supposed to require
twenty-eight days, but the girls were discharged as cured. As a result of these girls being bitten the health
board ordered all dogs muzzled,
which order will expire March 12.

TWO ACCOUNT SUITS DISMISSED

Cases of Am. Machine Co. vs. J. E.

Creed and Reed vs. Emsweller
Off Docket.

PARTITION SUIT IS CLOSED

It was quiet in circuit court today,
nothing of importance coming up for trial. The case of the American Seeding Machine company against Jesse E. Creed on an account, demanding $200, was compromised and dismissed. The case was expected to take at least two days. The case of T. Rich Reed against William Emsweller on an account, demanding $150, was also dismissed.

In the partition suit of Hannah F.
Henderson, Earl L. Henderson, Luna
Greer, Mary Burcham and Iva Burcham against Charles Henderson,
the court found for the plaintiffs and ordered a partition. Will M. Sparks was appointed commissioner to sell
the property.

EMMA G. HUMMEL ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Her Husband is Missing and His Whereabouts Have Not Been
Known for Almost a Year

HIS PAST SAID TO BE MYSTERY

Mrs. Emma G. Hummel of Knights-
town, who formerly owned a small
farm near Carthage and lived there,
has filed suit in the Henry circuit
court for a divorce from her husband, Jeremiah Hummel. Hummel
deserted his wife about a year ago
and his whereabouts are unknown
now. He came to Knightstown from
the east and little was known about
his past.

Mrs. Hummel, in her divorce suit,
alleges cruel and inhuman treatment
and claims that he cursed her, beat
her with his fists and failed to provide for her for two years. They were married March 27, 1911, according to the complaint, and separated January 12, 1912. She asks
that her maiden name of Foust be restored to her. She was at one
time the wife of Sherman Cunningham. They separated and she afterwards obtained a divorce and married Hummel.

OPPORTUNITIES TO HELP FARMER

T. A. Coleman, Former Rush County
Farmer, Shows Value of County Agricultural Agent.

CITES SOME GOOD EXAMPLES

No Agent Here, But There is Prob-
ability of Question Being Taken up Soon.

That the county agent system in Indiana can increase the crop yield
of the state, was the declaration of
T. A. Coleman, until several months
ago a Rush county farmer, but is now
in charge of the county agents, at Richmond yesterday.

"The county agent system will do
much good," he asserted. "But it
can only reach the farmer and get
him interested through increasing
his crops. It will be necessary to reach fifty per cent of the farm is through their pocketbooks."

Rush county has no agricultural
agent because the effort has never
been made here. The law requires
the subscription of a certain sum of money by the citizens of the county in order to obtain the appropriation from the
county council.

It has been suggested from many
sources that the Chamber of Commerce could, when it is completely
organized, take up an intelligent
study of this question through the
proper committee, because, in spite
of the many things which are presented in opposition to the scheme,
the county agent is popular wherever he has been retained.

Mr. Coleman continued in his interview hat there are exceptions to
the rule of reaching the farmer
through his pocket book. He cited
an example. In a nearby county a farmer went to the agent with a
small problem and the agent found
that this farmer was making money.
He was raising alfalfa and pure
bred hogs that were selling for seventy dollars a head; but there was not a sidewalk or a garden about the place.

In further support of the contention, Mr. Coleman continued:
"There were in Indiana 56,000 acres
of corn last year raising an average of 41 bushels to the acre. If that were but increased one bushel to the acre through the work of the county agent it would be 56,000 bushels at 50 cents a bushel and, a return to
the farmers of the state, $28,000.

"But fifty per cent of the farmers
will have to be reached and taught
the value of the county agent system through showing the farmer
that his profits will be increased by
its teachings and co-operation with it.

"Here is another example. In Madison county there was a farmer
who went to the county agent with a
milk problem. He had eight cows.
He was feeding corn and shredded
fodder. He told of the amount of money that he was making on his milk. He was selling at a loss. The
county agent went over his feed
problem with him and by the addition of proper feeding that farmers'
loss on milk was changed into a net
profit of $1.80 a day on the same
eight cows. His feeding ration was an expensive one, but it was not the
proper one to produce the most milk
at the least expense. This man has
the figures to show for his experiment and he does not need to theor-
ize about how much he could save
by taking advantage of what the
county agent knows about feeding
rations and other things.

"There are in this county 5,722

TO HELP FAMILY IN DIRE DISTRESS

Social Service Association Asks
Help For Bates Family, Whose
Home Burned This Morning.

DEPLORABLE CONDITIONS

Father and Mother Unable to Work
Dependent on Family of Children For Support.

Fire that gutted the home of C. L.
Bates in West Tenth street this
morning left a deplorable state of affairs which officers of the Rushville
Civic Improvement and Social Service association this afternoon started out to remedy.

The officials ask that any person
or persons who desire to help the
family, which is such dire distress,
either with contributions or money,
household equipment, clothing or
food, call by telephone or notify in
some manner, C. M. Yeum, Mrs. T.
W. Betker, Mrs. F. G. Hackleman, A.
D. Batchelor or Mrs. A. L. Stewart.

The fire wrought a havoc that will
not easily be replaced. The house
was practically destroyed and nothing was saved except the bed on
which the father of the family lay,
a rug, a few chairs and a davenport.
The home was well furnished.

Every bit of wearing apparel
possessed by members of the family,
except that which they wore, was
burned up. There are seven children
in the family and the older ones were
the sole support of the big and expensive household.

The children are: Artie, age 20;
Edith, 23; Mary 16; Mattie, 14;
Edgar, 18; Herschel, 11, and Minnie, 9. They had just recently finished paying for the home. There
was only $600 insurance on the
house and household goods, but it will not near cover the loss. The Rushville Furniture company headed
the list by presenting the stricken
family with a bedroom suit.

WHEAT NOT HURT BY COLD WEATHER

Farmers Declare That Prospects For
a Bumper Crop This Summer
Are very Encouraging.

SAY SNOW IS BENEFICIAL

According to the reports of the
farmers the wheat is in excellent
condition and the prospects for a big
crop are very encouraging. They
declare that the snow and cold
weather have been beneficial to the
growing grain and that there is little
danger of damage from the Hessian
fly or other insects now. However,
the fly frequently appears later in the
spring, but it is said that the greatest
damage results when there was very
little snowfall during the winter.

During the months of December
and January it was feared that the
unseasonable weather would permit
the wheat to grow too rapidly and
that it would be seriously damaged
should cold weather follow later. No
ill effects are seen in any of the fields
however, and the indications point to
a big harvest.

Word has been received here that
A. A. Anderson, formerly of the I. &
C., has gone insane and is confined in a hospital in Indianapolis. He had been in failing health for some time.

TO COVER VALUE DEPRECIATION

Natural Gas Companies Must Earn
12 Per Cent. Public Service
Commission Rules Today.

FIRST FINDING OF ITS KIND

Indianapolis, Ind., Mar. 6.—The
public service commission of Indiana in a decision in the Union City
case ruled today that the depreciation of a natural gas well shall be
based on the length of life of the
well. The ruling was that twelve
per cent. is a fair allowance for the
depreciation, which means a company must earn one hundred per cent in eight years to cover the depreciation alone.

This is believed to be the first ruling of its kind in this country.

resolution. Only four commissioners

FATHER GIVES VERSION TODAY

William Brown Described How His Son George Killed Constable Albert Hawkins.

FOLOWED QUARRREL HE SAID

Effort to Prove Dead Man Was In-
toxicated When he Was Killed
Fails by Court's Order.

(By United Press.)

Anderson, Ind., Mar. 6.—An effort
to prove that Constable Albert Hawkins was intoxicated the night he
went to Ingalls and was killed by George (Little Billy) Brown failed
today, for the court would not allow
as competent the testimony of
Charles Fleming.

Fleming would have testified that
before Hawkins went to Ingalls, he
went to a drinking party.

William Brown, the father, under
sentence of manslaughter for his
part in the murder of Hawkins, told
today the story of the killing. He said Hawkins had followed them for
some time. Some of the remarks
attributed to Hawkins by the elder
Brown were:

"I'll walk on any d— street I
want to."

"I'll fill you both full of lead."

"Let's finish this here."

"Little Billy grabbed at his neck
when he said that last," Brown
said, "and he killed Hawkins."

The Sewing club of Raleigh presented Mrs. John Widau, who is seriously ill at her home near there,
with a floral piece this morning.

The advertising has come to

It deals with facts—that

TELLS OF EFFECT OF NEW METHODS

Predicted Opponents of Eugenics Can't Long Hold it up to Ridicule of the People.

MUCH "BRAINS" BACK OF IT

Dr. J. N. Hurty and R. B. Von Klein Smid Both Ardent Supporters of New Movement.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 5.—Though eugenics is held up to ridicule in many quarters as the promoter of "the racial stock show," it is predicted by many that right here in Indiana the time is coming when the opponents of the movement must fight with other weapons. The reasons is that some of Indiana's mental and scientific leaders have accepted a good part of eugenics and are ready to push it. Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner, is known as an ardent eugenist, and R. B. Von Klein Smid, formerly professor of psychology of DePaul but now associate superintendent of the Indiana Reformatory at Jeffersonville, is delivering a lecture in various parts of the state in which he vigorously espouses eugenics. Dr. Von Klein Smid delivered this lecture at Lawrenceburg March 1.

In his lecture von Klein says that every great reform has been ignored, then ridiculed and then bitterly opposed. He says eugenics is now going through the second period. "It is being treated as a new and naughty joke," he says, and he adds:

"The acceptance of the plain fact of heredity is even now upon us, and the application of the principles of eugenics to organized society is one of the most important duties of the special scientist of the present generation."

The speaker gives a reason why eugenics or something similar is necessary. He says the human race reverses the process of natural selection, and that increases among the subnormal is at a rate out of all proportion to that of the normal—that the fertility of the helpless is amazing, and the procreation of their kind seems to be their only industry. In this class he places criminals, mental defectives, epileptic and degenerates. Von Klein Smid says there are three ways of taking care of these defectives. One is to prevent their marriage by legislation. Another is to segregate them as the insane are segregated and the third is sterilization.

More state laws are termed "eugenic." Those that have been enacted are said to have been poorly enforced, and failure of this scheme is said further to have failed in that the mentally defective do not seem to require "benefit of clergy."

Segregation is dismissed with the statement that it would mean segregation of four million people and would deprive of liberty a number who might far better be at liberty.

Sterilization has been legalized with or without the consent of the patient of eight states, he says, and "is fraught with so little inconvenience to the patient that it meets with the approval of those who believe there exists a certain percentage of defectives who should be allowed liberty and even the privilege of marriage but under no circumstance should become parents."

WHY 7000 DRUGGISTS

Guarantee and Recommend Vinol.

If any one should know the value of a medicine it is the retail druggist who sells it.

Therefore, when over seven thousand of the best retail druggists in the country recommend Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the greatest tonic reconstructer and strength creator they have ever sold, it must indicate the value of Vinol.

We could publish columns of such testimony as the following:

J. C. Brady, druggist of Fall River, Mass., says: "In cases where cod liver oil, emulsions and other tonics fail, Vinol will heal, strengthen and cure."

Charleston, W. Va., says: "It is a pleasure to sell Vinol as it gives such universal satisfaction."

Hunter & McGee druggists, of Jackson, Miss., say: "We have great confidence in the strength creating and curative value of Vinol."

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person or any person suffering from chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis, to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. TIME IS HERE TO SAVE YOUNG PIGS

Dr. Nelson, State Veterinarian, Declares from Now Until May Precautions Should be Used.

SUGGESTS METHODS TO USE

Hog Lots Should be Thoroughly Renovated, Plowed and Buildings Disinfected, He Says.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, March 6—If the farmers in the cholera-infected regions of Indiana want to save their young pigs, now is the time to act, said Dr. A. F. Nelson, state veterinarian, today. He told the United Press that from now on until May—which is the period when most pigs are reared—every precaution should be used, because young pigs take the disease in the most virulent form and can seldom be saved. Infected hog lots should be thoroughly renovated, he said. The lots should be plowed and the buildings disinfected, and all trash burned.

"When possible, the young pigs should be removed to other lots than the infected ones," Dr. Nelson said. "Though there may be no cases of cholera at present, if there have been in the past, the lot probably is infected." Dr. Nelson gave the following directions for disinfecting for cholera:

"Plow up the lot when possible. Burn all debris. There is no telling how long the cholera will remain. Use a spray pump and the following solution: 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid, which is one part to twenty parts of water; or use one part of bichloride of mercury to 1,000 parts of water or 7 2/3 grains of it to a pint." This substance comes in tablets and can be handled easily. Or use cold tar products, dissolved in water. These should be used in strengths about four times that indicated on the label. Parts one to twenty are best."

Dr. Nelson said that whereas farmers seem to have been made good progress in other respects, practically no progress had been made in the suppression of hog cholera in the last ten or twenty years. "It is just as bad as it ever was," he said, "and this is due largely to lack of co-operation on the farmers' part. Unless the farmer wakes up to the value of quarantine plus the serum, he will continue in a bad fix."

The veterinarian said that some counties had co-operated better than others and that as a result their conditions were better. In this class he named Henry, Boone, Tippecanoe, Madison, Tipton, Grant and Howard counties.

Just at present about 80 per cent of the counties in the state have some infection. The infection at this time, however, is not as general or serious as it has been largely because many hogs have been slaughtered or have died from the disease.

An Example.

Richmond offers an excellent example of what a commercial body can accomplish. The Commercial club there, under the direction of capable and far-seeing directors and with the aid of a secretary that is above the ordinary, is doing something of great worth to the city all the time.

Just now the club, in order to stimulate interest in scientific corn growing, has announced a co-operative plan, in which prizes amounting to $175 are to be given away. The management of the contest has been placed entirely in the hands of the Wayne county agricultural agent, Mr. Cobb, and will come to a close with a big county corn show.

Circulars are now being mailed over Wayne county fully explaining the contest. The co-operation of the Commercial club and the appropriation of $175 to pay the expense of the project was obtained through the influence of the secretary, Charles Jordan.

Wayne county's yield of corn is about 38 bushels to the acre, while the soil is capable of producing about 50 bushels if the corn is properly grown, Mr. Cobb stated. This increase would mean an addition into the hands of the farmers of thousands of dollars a year, the additional average profit from each acre if the average yield were increased to fifty bushels, would be no less than $50.

"We are co-operating with the farmers and the agricultural agent here because we want to encourage more intensive corn growing," Mr. Jordan said. "We believe that contest will increase the standard of corn growing and will tend toward an agricultural uplift. The club will keep in close touch with the agricultural interests of the county because whatever benefits that interest, benefits the entire community."

The ladies of the First Baptist church will hold an exchange next Saturday at the John B. Morris hardware store in West Second street. This will be an unusually large exchange and everything good to eat will be on sale.

ELEVEN ON TRAIL FOR CONTEMPT

Court Procedure Grows Out of Rioting at Church in South Bend —Opposed to Pastor

TROUBLE DATES BACK YEAR

(By United Press.)

South Bend, Ind., March 6.—Charges of contempt of court resulting from the rioting at the St. Casimir Polish Catholic church recently were to be heard in circuit court today by Judge Walter A. Funk. Judge Funk enjoined members of the congregation from preventing the installation of the Rev. Father Stanislaus Gruza. When the priest tried to enter the church on the appointed Sunday he was met by an angry mob of rioting parishioners who forced him and his police guard to retreat. In the rioting over a hundred were injured.

Eleven persons were on trial today. It is not known what their defense will be. They pleaded not guilty to the charge on February 26 and the cases were continued.

Since the attempt to force Father Gruza upon the parish and the result and riot, the parishioners have left the church in large numbers, signifying their intention of joining other churches. Most of them will join the Episcopal church, it is believed. Parochial schools in the parish have been closed because there were no pupils.

WILL PUSH THE FIGHT AGAINST HOG CHOLERA

Vigorous Campaign Proposed In Northern Indiana.

Washington, March 6.—It is reported that a government station for the preparation and distribution of hog cholera serum will be established in the Twelfth Indiana district. In the event that this policy is decided on, experts connected with the bureau of animal industry will adopt the county unit method of attempting to stamp out the disease.

President W. E. Stone of Purdue university and Dr. A. F. Nelson of Indianapolis, state veterinarian of Indiana, have written Representative Cyrus Cline that they will use their influence in attempting to obtain the establishment of a hog cholera serum depot in Allen, Steuben or some other northern Indiana county.

"Hog cholera is more prevalent in northern Indiana than anywhere else in the state," said Mr. Cline. "The congress recently passed a bill appropriating $500,000 for combating this dread disease among swine. A hog cholera laboratory was placed in operation in Montgomery county last year, and records on file at the department of agriculture show that the demonstrators there are doing good work. What the farmers of northern Indiana desire is for the bureau of animal industry to send several of its experts into one of the counties in my district and stamp out the cholera from every herd in that county. The plan is for the experts to clean up one county and then go into another and work among the herds so that the disease may be stamped out systematically in a reasonably short time."

Backache is only a simple thing at first;

But if you find 'tis from the kidneys;

That serious kidney troubles may follow;

That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end,

You will be glad to know the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Rushville citizen.

Samuel A. Brown, R. R. No. 10, Rushville, Ind., says: "I had a severe attack of backache and it got worse every day. Finally, the trouble got so bad that I could hardly raise my foot above the ground. When I stooped, I thought my back would break. Someone advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. I was very much surprised at the prompt way in which they stopped the trouble. In a few days I was free from pain."

USING REPORT IN ARGUMENT

Interurban Men Point to Statement of Department of Commerce in Opposing Utilities Commission

COMPARISON OF GROWTH

Has Slowed Up Progress in Wisconsin According to Carmen—Indiana in Class by Self

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 6—Interurban men are using the recent report of the department of commerce on electric railways in various states as a basis of their argument that regulation of public utilities by the state commissions hampers growth. The most striking example of this, they say, is seen in a comparison of the growth of Indiana interurban systems with those in Wisconsin—the principal exponent of public utility regulation by a state commission.

This comparison, with the inference that the public utility law in Wisconsin has slowed up interurban progress, is significant here for it is an attack on the law recently passed in Indiana, creating the public utility commission. This commission very recently settled an interurban dispute in a manner most satisfactory to the employees.

In 1902, the report says, the gross income in Indiana and Wisconsin was practically the same—$3,813,076 for Indiana and $3,923,884 for Wisconsin. The latter state had a slight advantage. In that year also the miles of line in Indiana were 523, with 299.13 in Wisconsin.

In 1907 the gross income in Indiana had nearly tripled. It was $11,496,768. The gross income in Wisconsin had not quite doubled. It was $6,662,817. Miles of line in Indiana had more than tripled, with a total of 1,714.61. Miles of line in Wisconsin had not doubled. The total in 1907 was 416.22.

In 1912, which is as far as this report goes, Indiana had $16,142,075 gross income and 2,038.97 miles of line, as against $8,648,124 gross income and 582.03 mile of line for Wisconsin. In the ten years Indiana had increased 323.3 percent in gross income as against an increase of 120.4 per cent. for Wisconsin, and had increased 289.4 per cent in miles of line as against an increase of 94.6 for Wisconsin. A prominent interurban man here told the United Press that the public utility law in Wisconsin might easily have caused this difference. The Indiana law was modeled after the Wisconsin law.

The exception is taken to this line of reasoning by an advocate of the public service commission here. He said that from a geographical standpoint Indiana is a much better state for interurban development than is Wisconsin. Thriving cities are more numerous and more closely centered he said. For this reason Indiana is in a class by itself in the interurban business.

"The reasoning against the public service law is faulty because the law in Wisconsin was not passed until 1907," he said. "Between 1902 and 1907 Indiana made much more rapid strides than Wisconsin, and neither had a public utility law."

This man had something to say about what he termed "the real and apparent prosperity of the interurban business in Indiana." He said that if all the interurban systems had built their business on as substantial a basis as the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern road there would be little to fear from the public service commission. "On the other hand," he said, "one system in Indiana—almost a dominant system—is badly financed. The stock is watered, and it is worth little. The connecting lines have been 'milked' until there is little real prosperity behind the imposing figures."

SENATOR CANNON RAPS MORMONISM

Says Religion is Menace to Nation In Address at Indianapolis—Advise Some Action

ARE GAINING IN STRENGTH

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, March 6—Mormonism was denounced here today as a peril to the nation. Senator Frank J. Cannon of Utah addressed an audience in the Meridian street M. E. church as a part of the national movement directed against the Mormon church. Cannon who is himself a Mormon, declared that "if the United States does not do something to the Mormon kingdom, then the Mormon kingdom is going to do something to the United States."

The polygamous life of the Mormons drew a bitter denunciation from Senator Cannon. He said it was the basis of their religion.

He said that the Mormons were dealing in "big business" and that their political power was the greatest menace to the nation. "Fifty-two years ago Abraham Lincoln tried to break the growing power of the Mormon church, but he died before much had been accomplished. Today the Mormons are ten times stronger."

SLOT MACHINES TAKEN OUT

Courier at Newcastle Puts Them on the Bum

(By United Press.)

Newcastle, Ind., March 6—The Courier here has put the slot machine business "on the bum." A syndicate thought it could slip into town on the quiet and do business, but when the newspaper heard of it there was very little quiet until every public official in the city had been questioned as to his attitude on the alleged gambling device. The prosecutor said it wasn't up to him but Mayor Watkins said he would tend to it. The machine had to go.

Seven Keys TO Baldpate

CHAPTER XVII. The Open Window.

MAGEE stood up, and in the light of the fire met Hayden. Now he saw that the face of the latest comer was scheming and weak and that under a small blond mustache a very cruel mouth sought to hide. The stranger gazed at Magee with an annoyance plainly marked.

"A friend of mine—Mr.—er—Downs, Mr. Magee, muttered blandly.

"Oh, come now," smiled Magee. "Let's tell our real names. I heard you greeting your friend a minute ago. How are you, Mr. Hayden?"

He held out his hand. Hayden looked him angrily in the eyes.

"Who the devil are you?" he asked.

"Do you mean," said Magee, "that you didn't catch the name. It's Magee—William, Hallowell Magee. I hold a record hereabouts, Mr. Hayden. I spent nearly an hour at Baldpate Inn—alone. You see, I was the first of our amiable little party to arrive. Let me make you welcome. Are you staying to dinner? You must."

"I'm not," growled Hayden.

"Don't believe him, Mr. Magee," sneered the mayor, "he doesn't always say what he means. He's going to stay, all right."

"Yes, you'd better, Mr. Hayden," advised blandly.

"Huh—delighted, I'm sure," snapped Hayden.

"Peters," said Magee, "an extra plate at dinner, please. I must leave you for a moment, gentlemen." He saw that their eyes followed him eagerly—full of suspicion, menacing.

"Murder—that is hardly in your line."

Hayden slipped quickly between Magee and the stairs. The latter faced him smilingly, reflecting as he did so that he could love this man but little.

"Who are you?" said Hayden again.

"What is your business here?"

Magee laughed outright and turned to the other men.

"How unfortunate," he said, "this gentleman does not know the manners and customs of Baldpate in winter. Those are questions, Mr. Hayden, that we are never impolite enough to ask of one another up here."

He ran upstairs and passed through No. 7 out upon the balcony. Trudging through the snow, he soon sighted the room of Professor Bolton. And as he did so a little shiver that was not due to atmospheric conditions ran down his spine, for one of the professor's windows stood wide open, bidding a welcome to the mountain storm. Peters had spoken the truth. Once more that tight little, right little package was within Mr. Magee's ken.

He stepped through the open window and closed it after him. By the table sat Professor Bolton, wrapped in coats and blankets, reading by the light of a solitary candle.

"Good evening, professor," said Magee easily. "Don't you find it rather cool with the window open?"

"Mr. Magee," replied the much wrapped gentleman, "I am that rather disturbing progressive—a fresh air devotee. I feel that God's good air was meant to be breathed, not barricaded from our bodies."

"Perhaps," suggested Magee, "I should have left the window open?"

The old man regarded him narrowly. "I have no wish to be inhospitable," he replied. "But, if you please—"

"Certainly," answered Magee. He threw open the window. The professor held up his book.

"I was passing the time before dinner with my pleasant old companion, Montaigne. Mr. Magee, have you ever read his essay on liars?"

"Never," said Magee. "But I do not blame you for brushing up on it at the present time, professor. I have come to apologize. Yesterday morning I referred in a rather unpleasant way to a murder in the chemical laboratory at one of our universities. I said that the professor of chemistry was missing. This morning's paper, which I secured from Mr. Peters, informs me that he has been apprehended."

"You need not have troubled to tell me," said the old man. He smiled his bleak smile.

"I did you an injustice," went on Magee.

"Let us say no more of it," pleaded Professor Bolton.

Mr. Magee walked about the room. Warily the professor turned so that the other was at no instant at his back. He looked so helpless, so little, so ineffectual, that Mr. Magee abandoned his first plan of leaping upon him there in the silence.

"I suppose," he said, "your love of fresh air accounts for the strolls on the balcony at all hours of the night?"

The old man merely blinked at him. "I mustn't stop," Magee continued.

"I just wanted to make my apology, that's all. It was unjust of me. Murder—that is hardly in your line. By the way, were you by any chance in my room this morning, Professor Bolton?"

Silence.

"Pardon me," remarked the professor at last, "if I do not answer. In this very essay on—on liars, Montaigne has expressed it so well. 'And how much is a false speech less sociable than silence?' I am a sociable man."

"Of course," smiled Magee. He stood looking down at the frail old scholar before him and considered. Of what avail a scuffle there in that chill room?

He went out through the open window, and in another moment stood just outside Miss Norton's room. She put a startled head out at his knock.

"Oh, it's you," she said. "I can't invite you in. You might learn terrible secrets of the dressing table—mamma is bedecking herself for dinner. Has anything happened?"

"Throw something over your head, Juliet," smiled Magee; "the balcony is waiting for you."

She was at his side in a moment, and they walked briskly along the shadowy white floor.

"I know who has the money," said Magee softly. "Simply through a turn of luck I know. I realize that my protestations of what I am going to do have bored you. But it looks very much to me as if that package would be in your hands very soon."

She did not reply.

"And when I have got it and have given it to you—if I do," he continued, "what then?"

"Then," she answered, "I must go away—very quickly. And no one must know or they will try to stop me."

"And after that?"

"The deluge," she laughed without mirth.

Up above them the great trees of Baldpate mountain waved their black arms constantly as though sparring with the storm. At the foot of the buried roadway they could see the lamps of Upper Asquewan Falls; under those lamps prosaic citizens were hurrying home with the supper groceries through the night. And not one of those citizens was within miles of guessing that up on the balcony of Baldpate inn a young man had seized a young woman's hand and was saying wildly, "Beautiful girl—I love you."

Yet that was exactly what Billy Magee was doing. The girl had turned her face away.

"You've known me just two days," she said.

"If I can care this much in two days," he said, "think—but that's old, isn't it? Some time soon I'm going to say to you, 'Whose girl are you?' and you're going to look up at me with a little heaven for two in your eyes and say, 'I'm Billy Magee's girl.' So before we go any further I must confess everything—I must tell you who this Billy Magee is—this man you're going to admit you belong to, my dear."

"You read the future glibly," she replied. "Are your prophecies true, I wonder?"

"Absolutely. Some time ago—on my soul, it was only yesterday!—I asked if you had read a certain novel called 'The Lost Limousine,' and you said you had and that it wasn't sincere. Well, I wrote it!"

"Oh!" cried the girl.

"Yes," said Magee, "and I've done others like it. Oh, yes, my muse has been a nouveau riche lady in a Worth gown; my ambition, a big red motor-car. I've been a 'scramble a cent, mister,' troubadour beckoning from the bookstalls. I turned tired of that sort, and I decided to try the other kind—the real kind."

"Don't tell me," whispered the girl, "that you came up here to—to—"

"Yes," smiled Magee, "I came up here to forget forever the world's giddy melodrama."

The girl leaned limply against the side of Baldpate inn.

"Oh, the irony of it!" she cried.

"I know," he said, "it's ridiculous. I think all this is meant just for temptation. I'll do the real stuff, so that when you say—as you certainly must some day—I'm Billy Magee's girl, you can say it proudly."

"I'm sure," she said softly, "that if I ever do say it—oh, no, I didn't say it would!"—for he had seized her hands quickly—"if I ever do say it—it will certainly be proudly. But now—you don't even know my name—my right one. You don't know what I do nor where I come from nor what I want with this disgusting bundle of money. I sort of feel, you know, that this is in the air at Baldpate even in the winter time. No sooner have the men come than they begin to talk of—love—to whatever girls they find here—on this very balcony—down there under the trees. And the girls listen, for—it's in the air, that's all. Then autumn comes, and everybody laughs and forgets. May not our autumn come—when I go away?"

"Never!" cried Magee. "This is no summer hotel affair to me. It's a real in winter and summer love, my dear. In spring and fall, and when you go away I'm going, too, about ten feet behind."

"Yes," she laughed, "they talk that way at Baldpate—the last weeks of summer. It's part of the game." They had come to the side of the hotel on which was the annex, and the girl stopped and pointed. "Look!" she whispered breathlessly.

In the window of the annex had appeared for a moment a flickering yellow light.

"I know," said Mr. Magee. "There's somebody in there. But that isn't important in comparison. This is no summer affair, dear. I love you, and when you go away I shall follow."

"And the book?"

"I have found better inspiration than Baldpate Inn."

They walked along for a time in silence.

"You forget," said the girl, "you only know who has the money."

"I will get it," he answered confidently. "Something tells me I will. Until I do I am content to say no more."

"Goodby," said the girl. She stood in the window of her room, while a harsh voice called, "That you, dearie?" from inside. "And I may add," she smiled, "that in my profession a following is considered quite-desirable."

She disappeared, and Mr. Magee, after a few minutes in his room, descended again to the office. In the center of the room Elijah Quimby and Hayden stood face to face.

"What is it, Quimby?" asked Magee.

"I just ran up to see how things were going," Quimby replied, "and I find him here."

"Our latest guest," smiled Magee.

"I was just reminding Mr. Hayden," Quimby said, his teeth set, an angry light in his eyes, "that the last time we met he ordered me from his office. I told you, Mr. Magee, that the Suburban railway once promised to make use of my invention. Then Mr. Kendrick went away, and this man took charge. When I came around to the offices again he laughed at me. When I came the second time he called me a loafer and ordered me out."

"Well?" asked Hayden.

"And now," Quimby went on, "I find you trespassing in a hotel left in my care—the tables are turned. I ought to show you the door. I ought to put you out."

"Try it," sneered Hayden.

"No," answered Quimby, "I ain't going to do it. Maybe it's because I've grown timid, brooding over my failure. And maybe it's because I know who's got the seventh key."

Hayden made no reply. No one stirred for a minute, and then Quimby moved away, and went out through the dining room door.

The seventh key! Mr. Magee thrilled at the mention of it. So Elijah Quimby knew the identity and the mission of the man who hid in the annex. Did any one else? Magee looked at the broad acreage of the mayor's face, at the ancient lemon of Max's, at Bland's, frightened and thoughtful, at Hayden's, concerned but smiling. Did any one else know? Ah, yes, of course. Down the stairs the professor of comparative literature felt his way to food.

"Is dinner ready?" he asked, peering about.

The candles flickered weakly as they fought the stronger shadows. Winter roared at the windows. Somewhere above a door crashed shut. Close to its final scene drew the drama at Baldpate inn. Mr. Magee knew it; he could not have told why. The others seemed to know it too. In silence they waited while the hermit scurried along his dim way preparing the meal. In silence they sat while Miss Norton and her mother descended. Once there was a little flurry of interest when Miss Thornhill and Hayden met at the foot of the stairs.

"Myra!" Hayden cried. "In heaven's name, what does this mean?"

"Unfortunately," said the girl, "I know—all it means."

And Hayden fell back into the shadows.

To be continued

their eyes followed him eagerly—full of suspicion, menacing.

Hayden slipped quickly between Magee and the stairs. The latter faced him smilingly, reflecting as he did so that he could love this man but little.

"The Greatest Kidney Remedy on Earth," Says A Grateful Woman.

I want to tell you how much good your Swamp-Root did me. About four years ago, I suffered from what the doctors called fistula and for two years of that time, I endured what no tongue can tell. I also had inflammation of the bladder and I tried doctors' medicines without receiving any help. Someone told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. After giving it a thorough trial, I received relief, so kept on using it and today I am a strong and well woman. If I ever feel badly or out of sorts, I take Swamp-Root and it always straightens me out. I honestly believe that this medicine would cure all troubles you recommend it for and it is a pleasure for me to send my testimony and photograph to you. I think Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is one of the greatest medicines on earth.

Respectfully yours,

Many People Profess Not to Know Him, But he is in Disguise, Experts Declare.

A NEW NAME FOR HOUSE FLY
Department of Agriculture Warns That Fly Season is Almost Upon us Now.

[Special to the Daily Republican.] Washington, Mar. 6.—“We have never heard of the typhoid fly,” the average person will say on hearing that insect mentioned.

The typhoid fly is merely an old acquaintance in disguise. The Department of Agriculture's scientists have decided that this is the most appropriate name for the insect commonly known as the “house fly,” which is a most dangerous creature, although considered at most simply a nuisance by many people. This fly is one of the most active agents in spreading typhoid fever. It spreads Asiatic cholera and other diseases of the intestines. It has even been known to be a minor factor in spreading tuberculosis. If the name of the typhoid fly could be popularized, perhaps a more general idea could be given of the danger that lurks wherever the pest is present.

Another name which has been suggested for this pest is even better than the ordinary term “house fly.” This is “manure fly.” The insect is quite as partial to manure as it is to the house. Its chief breeding place is the manure heap. In eradicating the breeding place of this pest, however, the department is seeking a method that will accomplish the work without lessening the value of the fertilizer. Satisfactory progress has been made and announcements concerning new methods probably will be issued soon.

The fly season begins in the South during the last part of February, and the department's investigator of malarial mosquitoes there is also considering methods of controlling the typhoid fly.

The department is also investigating the stable fly, which is an important enemy to agriculture, in that it seriously reduces the value of live stock. It is also suspected of carrying infantile paralysis. In Montana the department is conducting another investigation of a disease-bearing insect. This is the carrier of “spotted fever”—a species of tick in the northern Rocky Mountain region. Still another investigation has to do with the possibility that pellagra is transmitted by insects. This has not yet been proven.

The Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Entomology has a bulletin for distribution dealing with the typhoid fly. Remedies and preventives are recommended.

SAYS DISEASE IS INFECTIOUS

Dr. Herman M. Biggs, New York Health Commissioner, Replies to Attack of Christian Scientists

HE URGES MORE HOSPITALS
Precautionary Measures are Advocated in Article Appearing in Outdoor Life Today.

Replying to an attack on the movement for local tuberculosis hospitals made by the Christian Science Church, Dr. Herman M. Biggs, State Commissioner of Health of New York, says in a statement published today through the Journal of the Outdoor Life, the official organ of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, that tuberculosis is an infectious disease and that every precaution known should be taken especially for the protection of young children. He particularly urges local hospitals.

The occasion for Dr. Biggs' statement is the recent wide dissemination of an article purporting to show that tuberculosis was not infectious. By quoting only a part of a medical paper written by Dr. E. R. Baldwin, of Saranac Lake, the Christian Scientists have given the impression that tuberculosis is not infectious when, as a matter of fact, Dr. Baldwin laid stress on the extreme danger of the disease to children.

“Tuberculosis is an infectious and communicable disease,” said Dr. Biggs. “No age is exempt, and no one is immune against tuberculosis infection, but differences in susceptibility exist at different ages. The frequency of infection increases rapidly from the first year until at the age of fifteen perhaps 75 per cent of the population show a positive reaction to tuberculin, although only a small proportion have signs of the disease which can be detected by other means.

“The conviction has been gradually strengthened that the first infection from tuberculosis often occurs during infancy and childhood. It seems probable that many of those who develop the disease in adult life have carried the latent infection since childhood, and have no recent and new infection when the symptoms of the disease appear.

“It has also been found by experiment that it is difficult to re-infect an animal that has already been inoculated with tuberculosis. Hence, it is inferred that some degree of immunity may be thus produced that may serve to ward off bacilli which might find lodgment in an individual not previously infected. Therefore, it will be understood how the mild infections, which are healed and present in most persons who have reached adult age may, and presumably do offer some protection against further limited invasions of the tubercle bacilli. While persons are in good health the protection thus offered is an advantage having some resemblance to vaccination, but only very limited in nature and not complete. Prolonged or intimate exposure, however, or exposure to a virulent type of tuberculosis may result in a new infection, even of those who have overcome a previous mild infection. It is, moreover, by no means certain that in debilitated conditions due to other diseases, to dissipation or to bad environment, new infections may not occur. We know positively that the first childhood infection may under such circumstances break out anew and thus become a doubtful advantage a real sword with two edges.

“Considering the natural and acquired resistance to infection by adults, much unreasonable fear or ‘phthisiophobia’ has prevailed in late years. Because there is no precaution too great for the protection of the young and delicate, this does not justify healthy adults in exaggerated fears for their own safety. In view of the present wide distribution of the disease, and lack of adequate means for segregation, some exposure to infection is practically unavoidable. Efforts should be redoubled instead of relaxed for the better isolation, humane care and intelligent treatment of consumptives.”

During this delay the flames gained rapid headway and by the time water was thrown, the entire second story was in flames. The loss is estimated at $1,500. Some of the household goods were saved, with the exception of those on the second floor. The flames at the start seemed to be next to the roof in the northwest corner of the house.

Mr. Bates is suffering from tuberculosis and because of the exposure suffered in moving him from the house, fears are expressed for his life. He was in an upstairs room and it was necessary to carry him from the burning house. He was taken to the Foulton home and a physician called.

The alarm was sent in by telephone and the department was on the way before the fire bell rang. The damage to the house would no doubt have been light had not the plug been frozen. The Reynolds and Clifford factory was closed during the fire and the men went over and assisted.

LAND IN NEW YORK TODAY

(By United Press.)
New York, March 6.—While thousands of people jammed the pier in North river cheering themselves hoarse, the liner Lusitania arrived today at 10:35, bringing the world prowling Giants and White Sox back home. Organized baseball was in full possession of the ship. The Federal leaguers had to wait on the pier.

The Federals resorted to the wireless and Tris Speaker, star outfielder, had a message telling him the Federals were "ready to do business with the boys" at the Knickerbocker.

Pres. Lemmon of the Boston club said he was absolutely confident that all the players would remain with organized baseball. Sam Crawford said: "Money talks." All denied having received offers from the Feds.

Treatment at home is being given the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilson of northern Rush county to prevent hydrophobia. The boy was scratched on the face by a cat over a week ago. TWO FIRES FROM DEFECTIVE FLUES

turns From C. L. Bates Home Un-
til Another Call Comes In.

FROM WILLIAM EMSWELLER

Bates House is Practically Destroyed
at Loss of $1,500—About $400
Loss at Other.

The fire department put in a very
busy morning, being called to the
home of C. L. Bates, 616 West Tenth
street, and to the residence of William Emsweller, corner of Tenth and
Harrison streets. The Bates home
was practically destroyed and the
damage to the Emsweller residence
amounted to about $400.

Both fires were caused by defective flues. The department worked
under the very worst conditions, and
that any part of the two houses was
saved is considered remarkable. The
hydrant at the corner of Arthur and Tenth streets was found frozen at
the start of the Bates fire when the
pressure was turned on, the hydrant
gave way and burst.

The break in the main did not come
until the fire at the Bates home was
about out and when the department
went to the Emsweller place there
was scarcely any pressure. The break
in the main was discovered when Fire Chief Ensley asked for more
pressure from the water and light
plant. At that time the pressure was
at 100 pounds and the men at the
plant realized there was a break.
Over thirteen feet of water was taken from the reservoir and the greater the pressure the greater was the
loss of water.

When the alarm came in for the Emsweller fire, the firemen were engaged in gathering up the hose at
the Bates fire and went directly
there. The interior and roof of the Emsweller home was badly damaged.
The house is owned by Robert Innis
and the loss is fully covered with insurance.

The hydrant that was frozen had
been reported to the fire committee
along with all the others that are in
need of repair. Because of weather
conditions it has been impossible to
make the repairs. There are several other hydrants that are in need of
repair and will be fixed as soon as
the weather permits.

The fire department was hindered
greatly in the work of fighting the Bates fire by a frozen hydrant at the
corner of Arthur and Tenth streets.
A line of hose was attached to this
hydrant, which is only a short distance from the house, and it was found that the plug was frozen. It
was necessary to run the line of hose
from Oliver and Tenth streets, which

Both Getting Along Nicely After Taking Treatment.

from Indianapolis where they took
the Pasteur treatment after having
been bitten by a mad dog. The two
little girls have recovered from the
effect of their injuries and are believed to be out of danger. The
treatment is supposed to require
twenty-eight days, but the girls were discharged as cured. As a result of
these girls being bitten the health
board ordered all dogs muzzled,
which order will expire March 12.

EMMA G. HUMMEL ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Her Husband is Missing and His
Whereabouts Have Not Been
Known for Almost a Year

HIS PAST SAID TO BE MYSTERY

Mrs. Emma G. Hummel of Knights-
town, who formerly owned a small
farm near Carthage and lived there,
has filed suit in the Henry circuit
court for a divorce from her husband, Jeremiah Hummel. Hummel
deserted his wife about a year ago
and his whereabouts are unknown
now. He came to Knightstown from
the east and little was known about
his past.

Mrs. Hummel, in her divorce suit,
alleges cruel and inhuman treatment
and claims that he cursed her, beat
her with his fists and failed to provide for her for two years. They were married March 27, 1911, according to the complaint, and separated January 12, 1912. She asks
that her maiden name of Foust be restored to her. She was at one
time the wife of Sherman Cunning-
ham. They separated and she afterwards obtained a divorce and married Hummel.

OPPORTUNITIES TO HELP FARMER

T. A. Coleman, Former Rush County
Farmer, Shows Value of County Agricultural Agent.

CITES SOME GOOD EXAMPLES

No Agent Here, But There is Prob-
ability of Question Being Taken up Soon.

That the county agent system in Indiana can increase the crop yield
of the state, was the declaration of
T. A. Coleman, until several months
ago a Rush county farmer, but is now
in charge of the county agents, at Richmond yesterday.

"The county agent system will do
much good," he asserted. "But it
can only reach the farmer and get
him interested through increasing
his crops. It will be necessary to reach fifty per cent of the farmers through their pocketbooks."

Rush county has no agricultural
agent because the effort has never
been made here. The law requires
the subscription of a certain sum of money by the citizens of the county in order to obtain the appropriation from the
county council.

It has been suggested from many
sources that the Chamber of Commerce could, when it is completely
organized, take up an intelligent
study of this question through the
proper committee, because, in spite
of the many things which are pre-
sented in opposition to the scheme,
the county agent is popular where-
ver he has been retained.

Mr. Coleman continued in his interview that there are exceptions to
the rule of reaching the farmer
through his pocket book. He cited
an example. In a nearby county a
farmer went to the agent with a
small problem and the agent found
that this farmer was making money.
He was raising alfalfa and pure
bred hogs that were selling for seventy dollars a head; but there was not a sidewalk or a garden about the place.

In further support of the contention, Mr. Coleman continued: "There were in Indiana 56,000 acres of corn last year raising an average
of 41 bushels to the acre. If that were but increased one bushel to the acre through the work of the county
agent it would be 56,000 bushels at 50 cents a bushel and, a return to
the farmers of the state, $28,000."

"But fifty per cent of the farmers
will have to be reached and taught
the value of the county agent system through showing the farmer
that his profits will be increased by
its teachings and co-operation with it."

"Here is another example. In Madison county there was a farmer
who went to the county agent with a
milk problem. He had eight cows.
He was feeding corn and shredded
fodder. He told of the amount of
money that he was making on his
milk. He was selling at a loss. The
county agent went over his feed
problem with him and by the addition of proper feeding that farmers'
loss on milk was changed into a net
profit of $1.80 a day on the same
eight cows. His feeding ration was
an expensive one, but it was not the
proper one to produce the most milk
at the least expense. This man has
the figures to show for his experiment and he does not need to theor-
ize about how much he could save
by taking advantage of what the
county agent knows about feeding
rations and other things."

"There are in this county 5,722

TO HELP FAMILY IN DIRE DISTRESS

Social Service Association Asks
Help For Bates Family, Whose
Home Burned This Morning.

DEPLORABLE CONDITIONS

Father and Mother Unable to Work
Dependent on Family of Children For Support.

Fire that gutted the home of C. L.
Bates in West Tenth street this
morning left a deplorable state of affairs which officers of the Rushville
Civic Improvement and Social Service association this afternoon started out to remedy.

The officials ask that any person
or persons who desire to help the
family, which is such dire distress,
either with contributions or money,
household equipment, clothing or
food, call by telephone or notify in
some manner, C. M. Yocum, Mrs. T.
W. Betker, Mrs. F. G. Hackleman, A.
D. Batchelor or Mrs. A. L. Stewart.

The fire wrought a havoc that will
not easily be replaced. The house
was practically destroyed and nothing was saved except the bed on
which the father of the family lay,
a rug, a few chairs and a davenport.
The home was well furnished.

Every bit of wearing apparel
possessed by members of the family,
except that which they wore, was
burned up. There are seven children
in the family and the older ones were
the sole support of the big and expensive household.

The children are: Artie, age 20;
Edith, 23; Mary, 16; Mattie, 14;
Edgar, 18; Herschel, 11, and Min-
nie, 9. They had just recently finished paying for the home. There
was only $600 insurance on the
house and household goods, but it
will not near cover the loss. The Rushville Furniture company headed
the list by presenting the stricken
family with a bedroom suit.

WHEAT NOT HURT BY COLD WEATHER

Farmers Declare That Prospects For
a Bumper Crop This Summer
Are very Encouraging.

SAY SNOW IS BENEFICIAL

According to the reports of the
farmers the wheat is in excellent
condition and the prospects for a big
crop are very encouraging. They
declare that the snow and cold
weather have been beneficial to the
growing grain and that there is little
danger of damage from the Hessian
fly or other insects now. However,
the fly frequently appears later in the
spring, but it is said that the greatest
damage results when there was very
little snowfall during the winter.

During the months of December
and January it was feared that the
unseasonable weather would permit
the wheat to grow too rapidly and
that it would be seriously damaged
should cold weather follow later. No
ill effects are seen in any of the fields
however, and the indications point to
a big harvest.

Word has been received here that
A. A. Anderson, formerly of the I. &
C., has gone insane and is confined in
a hospital in Indianapolis. He had been in failing health for some time.

Natural Gas Companies Must Earn
12 Per Cent. Public Service
Commission Rules Today.

FIRST FINDING OF ITS KIND

Indianapolis, Ind., Mar. 6.—The
public service commission of Indiana in a decision in the Union City
case ruled today that the depreciation of a natural gas well shall be
based on the length of life of the
well. The ruling was that twelve
per cent is a fair allowance for the
depreciation, which means a company must earn one hundred per cent in eight years to cover the depreciation alone.

This is believed to be the first ruling of its kind in this country.

William Brown Described How His

bert Hawkins.

Effort to Prove Dead Man Was In-
toxicated When he Was Killed
Fails by Court's Order.

(By United Press.)

Anderson, Ind., Mar. 6.—An effort
to prove that Constable Albert Hawkins was intoxicated the night he
went to Ingalls and was killed by George (Little Billy) Brown failed
today, for the court would not allow
as competent the testimony of
Charles Fleming.

Fleming would have testified that
before Hawkins went to Ingalls, he
went to a drinking party.

William Brown, the father, under
sentence of manslaughter for his
part in the murder of Hawkins, told
today the story of the killing. He
said Hawkins had followed them for
some time. Some of the remarks
attributed to Hawkins by the elder
Brown were:

"I'll walk on any d— street I
want to."

"I'll fill you both full of lead."

"Let's finish this here."

"Little Billy grabbed at his neck
when he said that last." Brown
said, and he killed Hawkins."

What the news does is liter-

The advertising has come to

It tells of the currents of

It deals with facts—that

TELLS OF EFFECT OF NEW METHODS

Predicted Opponents of Eugenics Can't Long Hold it up to Ridicule of the People.

MUCH "BRAINS" BACK OF IT

Dr. J. N. Hurty and R. B. Von Klein Smid Both Ardent Supporters of New Movement.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 5.—Though eugenics is held up to ridicule in many quarters as the promoter of "the racial stock show," it is predicted by many that right here in Indiana the time is coming when the opponents of the movement must fight with other weapons. The reasons is that some of Indiana's mental and scientific leaders have accepted a good part of eugenics and are ready to push it. Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner, is known as an ardent eugenicist, and R. B. Von Klein Smid, formerly professor of psychology of DePauw but now associate superintendent of the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville, is delivering a lecture in various parts of the state in which he vigorously espouses eugenics. Dr. Von Klein Smid delivered this lecture at Lawrenceburg March 1.

In his lecture von Klein says that every great reform has been ignored, then ridiculed and then bitterly opposed. He says eugenics is now going through the second period. "It is being treated as a new and naughty joke," he says, and he adds:

"The acceptance of the plain fact of heredity is even now upon us, and the application of the principles of eugenics to organized society is one of the most important duties of the special scientist of the present generation."

The speaker gives a reason why eugenics or something similar is necessary. He says the human race reverses the process of natural selection, and that increases among the subnormal is at a rate out of all proportion to that of the normal, that the fertility of the helpless is alarming, and the procreation of their kind seems to be their only industry. In this class he places criminals, mental defectives, epileptic and degenerates.

Von Klein Smid says there are three ways of taking care of these

defectives. One is to prevent their marriage by legislation. Another is to segregate them as the insane are segregated and the third is sterilization.

More state laws are termed "eugenic." Those that have been enacted are said to have been poorly enforced, and failure of this scheme is said further to have failed in that the mentally defective do not seem to require "benefit of clergy."

Segregation is dismissed with the statement that it would mean segregation of four million people and would deprive of liberty a number who might far better be at liberty.

Sterilization has been legalized with or without the consent of the patient of eight states, he says, and "is fraught with so little inconvenience to the patient that it meets with the approval of those who believe there exists a certain percentage of defectives who should be allowed liberty and even the privilege of marriage but under no circumstance should become parents."

WHY 7000 DRUGGISTS

Guarantee and Recommend Vinol.

If any one should know the value of a medicine it is the retail druggist who sells it.

Therefore, when over seven thousand of the best retail druggists in the country recommend Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the greatest tonic re-creator and strength creator they have ever sold, it must indicate the value of Vinol.

We could publish columns of such testimony as the following:

J. C. Brady, druggist of Fall River, Mass., says: "In cases where cod liver oil, emulsions and other tonics fail, Vinol will heal, strengthen and cure."

Charleston, W. Va., says: "It is a pleasure to sell Vinol as it gives such universal satisfaction."

Hunter & McGee, druggists, of Jackson, Miss., say: "We have great confidence in the strength creating and curative value of Vinol."

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person or any person suffering from chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis, to buy a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. TIME IS HERE TO SAVE YOUNG PIGS

Dr. Nelson, State Veterinarian, Declares from Now Until May Precautions Should be Used.

SUGGESTS METHODS TO USE

Hog Lots Should be Thoroughly Renovated, Plowed and Buildings Disinfected, He Says.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, March 6.—If the farmers in the cholera-infected regions of Indiana want to save their young pigs, now is the time to act, said Dr. A. P. Nelson, state veterinarian, today. He told the United Press that from now on until May—which is the period when most pigs are reared—every precaution should be used, because young pigs take the disease in the most virulent form and can seldom be saved. Infected hog lots should be thoroughly renovated, he said. The lots should be plowed and the buildings disinfected, and all trash burned.

"When possible, the young pigs should be removed to other lots than the infected ones," Dr. Nelson said. "Though there may be no cases of cholera at present, if there have been in the past, the lot probably is infected." Dr. Nelson gave the following directions for disinfecting for cholera:

"Plow up the lot when possible. Burn all debris. There is no telling how long the cholera will remain. Use a spray pump and the following solution: 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid, which is one part to twenty parts of water; or use one part of bicarbonate of mercury to 1,000 parts of water or 7 2/3 grains of it to a pint." This substance comes in tablets and can be handled easily. Or use cold tar products dissolved in water. These should be used in strengths about four times that indicated on the label. Parts one to twenty are best."

Dr. Nelson said that whereas farmers seem to have been made good progress in other respects, practically no progress had been made in the suppression of hog cholera in the last ten or twenty years. "It is just as bad as it ever was," he said, "and this is due largely to lack of co-operation on the farmers' part. Unless the farmer wakes up to the value of quarantine plus the serum, he will continue in a bad fix."

The veterinarian said that some counties had co-operated better than others and that as a result their conditions were better. In this class he named Henry, Boone, Tippecanoe, Madison, Tipton, Grant and Howard counties.

Just at present about 80 per cent of the counties in the state have some infection. The infection at this time, however, is not as general or serious as it has been largely because many hogs have been slaughtered or have died from the disease.

An Example.

Richmond offers an excellent example of what a commercial club can accomplish. The Commercial club there, under the direction of capable and far-seeing directors and with the aid of a secretary that is above the ordinary, is doing something of great worth to the city all the time.

Just now the club, in order to stimulate interest in scientific corn growing, has announced a co-operative plan, in which prizes amounting to $175 are to be given away. The management of the contest has been placed entirely in the hands of the Wayne county agricultural agent, Mr. Cobb, and will come to a close with a big county corn show.

Circulars are now being mailed over Wayne county fully explaining the contest. The co-operation of the Commercial club and the appropriation of $175 to pay the expense of the project was obtained through the influence of the secretary, Charles Jordan.

Wayne county's yield of corn is about 38 bushels to the acre, while the soil is capable of producing about 50 bushels if the corn is properly grown, Mr. Cobb stated. This increase would mean an addition into the hands of the farmers of thousands of dollars a year, the additional average profit from each acre if the average yield were increased to fifty bushels, would be no less than $50.

"We are co-operating with the farmers and the agricultural agent here because we want to encourage more intensive corn growing," Mr. Jordan said. "We believe that contest will increase the standard of corn growing and will tend toward an agricultural uplift. The club will keep in close touch with the agricultural interests of the county because whatever benefits that interest, benefits the entire community."

First Baptist Exchange.

The ladies of the First Baptist church will hold an exchange next Saturday at the John B. Morris hardware store in West Second street. This will be an unusually large exchange and everything good to eat will be on sale.

The Mule Case

In your paper of last Friday, February 27, you had what purported to be the conditions under which the case of Mr. Carly and Meyer vs. J. E. and J. B. Hardin was settled which is at variance with the facts. The facts are these: I sold the mules to McCarty & Meyer March 9, 1912 for $276.00, they gave me their note due Dec. 25, 1912, Apr. 11, 1912 they returned the mules and tied them in my barn without my knowledge or consent. They paid the note when due.

They brought suit against me and my son for the $276.00, which they had paid, and interest on it since that time, and for $11.75 feed bill for the 32 days they had the mules, demanding in all $325.00.

The case was set for trial 3 times and witnesses subpoenaed for each trial. The day of trial, February 27, a jury was selected and the plaintiffs, had introduced two witnesses before noon. During noon adjournment a compromise was effected as follows: Plaintiffs paid me in cash $125.00 for feed and care of the mules and they took the mules. They also paid all costs except my witness fees for that day. This settlement was made to cover all matters between us in this suit.

ELEVEN ON TRAIL FOR CONTEMPT

Court Procedure Grows Out of Rioting at Church in South Bend
—Opposed to Pastor

TROUBLE DATES BACK YEAR

(By United Press.)

South Bend, Ind., March 6.—Charges of contempt of court resulting from the rioting at the St. Casimir Polish Catholic church recently were to be heard in circuit court today by Judge Walter A. Funk. Judge Funk enjoined members of the congregation from preventing the installation of the Rev. Father Stanislaus Gruzna. When the priest tried to enter the church on the appointed Sunday he was met by an angry mob of rioting parishioners who forced him and his police guard to retreat. In the rioting over a hundred were injured.

Eleven persons were on trial today. It is not known what their defense will be. They pleaded not guilty to the charge on February 26 and the cases were continued.

Since the attempt to force Father Gruzna upon the parish and the result and riot, the parishioners have left the church in large numbers, signifying their intention of joining other churches. Most of them will join the Episcopal church, it is believed. Parochial schools in the parish have been closed because there were no pupils.

WILL PUSH THE FIGHT AGAINST HOG CHOLERA

Vigorous Campaign Proposed
In Northern Indiana.

Washington, March 6.—It is reported that a government station for the preparation and distribution of hog cholera serum will be established in the Twelfth Indiana district. In the event that this policy is decided on, experts connected with the bureau of animal industry will adopt the county unit method of attempting to stamp out the disease.

President W. E. Stone of Purdue university and Dr. A. F. Nelson of Indianapolis, state veterinarian of Indiana, have written Representative Cyrus Cline that they will use their influence in attempting to obtain the establishment of a hog cholera serum depot in Allen, Steuben or some other northern Indiana county.

"Hog cholera is more prevalent in northern Indiana than anywhere else in the state," said Mr. Cline. "The congress recently passed a bill appropriating $500,000 for combating this dread disease among swine. A hog cholera laboratory was placed in operation in Montgomery county last year, and records on file at the department of agriculture show that the demonstrators there are doing good work. What the farmers of northern Indiana desire is for the bureau of animal industry to send several of its experts into one of the counties in my district and stamp out the cholera from every herd in that county. The plan is for the experts to clean up one county and then go into another and work among the herds so that the disease may be stamped out systematically in a reasonably short time."

USING REPORT IN ARGUMENT

Interurban Men Point to Statement of Department of Commerce in Opposing Utilities Commission

COMPARISON OF GROWTH

Has Slowed Up Progress in Wisconsin According to Carmen —Indiana in Class by Self

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 6.—Interurban men are using the recent report of the department of commerce on electric railways in various states as a basis of their argument that regulation of public utilities by the state commissions hampers growth. The most striking example of this, they say, is seen in a comparison of the growth of Indiana interurban systems with those in Wisconsin—the principal exponent of public utility regulation by a state commission.

This comparison, with the inference that the public utility law in Wisconsin has slowed up interurban progress, is significant here for it is an attack on the law recently passed in Indiana, creating the public utility commission. This commission very recently settled an interurban dispute in a manner most satisfactory to the employees.

In 1902, the report says, the gross income in Indiana and Wisconsin was practically the same—$3,813,076 for Indiana and $3,923,894 for Wisconsin. The latter state had a slight advantage. In that year also the miles of line in Indiana were 523, with 299.13 in Wisconsin.

In 1907 the gross income in Indiana had nearly tripled. It was $11,496,748. The gross income in Wisconsin had not quite doubled. It was $6,662,817. Miles of line in Indiana had more than tripled, with a total of 1,714.61. Miles of line in Wisconsin had not doubled. The total in 1907 was 416.22.

In 1912, which is as far as this report goes, Indiana had $16,142,075 gross income and 2,038.97 miles of line, as against $8,648,124 gross income and 582.03 mile of line for Wisconsin. In the ten years Indiana had increased 323.3 percent in gross income as against an increase of 120.4 per cent. for Wisconsin, and had increased 289.4 per cent in miles of line as against an increase of 94.6 for Wisconsin. A prominent interurban man here told the United Press that the public utility law in Wisconsin might easily have caused this difference. The Indiana law was modeled after the Wisconsin law.

The exception is taken to this line of reasoning by an advocate of the public service commission here. He said that from a geographical standpoint Indiana is a much better state for interurban development than is Wisconsin. Thriving cities are more numerous and more closely centered he said. For this reason Indiana is in a class by itself in the interurban business.

"The reasoning against the public service law is faulty because the law in Wisconsin was not passed until 1907, and the figures noted date from 1902," he said. "Between 1902 and 1907 Indiana made much more rapid strides than Wisconsin, and neither had a public utility law."

This man had something to say about what he termed "the real and apparent prosperity of the interurban business in Indiana." He said that if all the interurban systems had built their business on as substantial a basis as the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern road there would be little to fear from the public service commission. "On the other hand," he said, "one system in Indiana—almost a dominant system—is badly financed. The stock is watered, and it is worth little. The connecting lines have been 'milked' until there is little real prosperity behind the imposing figures."

SENATOR CANNON RAPS MORMONISM

Says Religion is Menace to Nation In Address at Indianapolis—Advise Some Action

ARE GAINING IN STRENGTH

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, March 6.—Mormonism was denounced here today as a peril to the nation. Senator Frank J. Cannon of Utah addressed an audience in the Meridian street M. E. church as a part of the national movement directed against the Mormon church. Cannon who is himself a Mormon, declared that "if the United States does not do something to the Mormon kingdom, then the Mormon kingdom is going to do something to the United States."

The polygamous life of the Mormons drew a bitter denunciation from Senator Cannon. He said it was the basis of their religion.

He said that the Mormons were dealing in "big business" and that their political power was the greatest menace to the nation. "Fifty-two years ago Abraham Lincoln tried to break the growing power of the Mormon church, but he died before much had been accomplished. Today the Mormons are ten times stronger."

He said the nation did not attack religious liberty but desired the church to live up to the treaty made between it and the nation.

SLOT MACHINES TAKEN OUT

Courier at Newcastle Puts Them on the Bum

(By United Press.)

Newcastle, Ind., March 6.—The Courier here has put the slot machine business "on the bum." A syndicate thought it could slip into town on the quiet and do business, but when the newspaper heard of it there was very little quiet until every public official in the city had been questioned as to his attitude on the alleged gambling device. The prosecutor said it wasn't up to him but Mayor Watkins said he would tend to it. The machine had to go.

Many People Profess Not to Know Him, But he is in Disguise, Experts Declare.

A NEW NAME FOR HOUSE FLY
Department of Agriculture Warns That Fly Season is Almost Upon us Now.

(Special to the Daily Republican.)
Washington, Mar. 6.—“We have never heard of the typhoid fly,” the average person will say on hearing that insect mentioned.

The typhoid fly is merely an old acquaintance in disguise. The Department of Agriculture's scientists have decided that this is the most appropriate name for the insect commonly known as the “house fly,” which is a most dangerous creature, although considered at most simply a nuisance by many people. This fly is one of the most active agents in spreading typhoid fever. It spreads Asiatic cholera and other diseases of the intestines. It has even been known to be a minor factor in spreading tuberculosis. If the name of the typhoid fly could be popularized, perhaps a more general idea could be given of the danger that lurks wherever the pest is present.

Another name which has been suggested for this pest is even better than the ordinary term “house fly.” This is “manure fly.” The insect is quite as partial to manure as it is to the house. Its chief breeding place is the manure heap. In eradicating the breeding place of this pest, however, the department is seeking a method that will accomplish the work without lessening the value of the fertilizer. Satisfactory progress has been made and announcements concerning new methods probably will be issued soon.

The fly season begins in the South during the last part of February, and the department's investigator of malarial mosquitoes there is also considering methods of controlling the typhoid fly.

The department is also investigating the stable fly, which is an important enemy to agriculture, in that it seriously reduces the value of live stock. It is also suspected of carrying infantile paralysis. In Montana the department is conducting another investigation of a disease-bearing insect. This is the carrier of “spotted fever”—a species of tick in the northern Rocky Mountain region. Still another investigation has to do with the possibility that pellagra is transmitted by insects. This has not yet been proven.

The Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Entomology has a bulletin for distribution dealing with the typhoid fly. Remedies and preventives are recommended.

SAYS DISEASE IS INFECTIOUS

Dr. Herman M. Biggs, New York Health Commissioner, Replies to Attack of Christian Scientists

HE URGES MORE HOSPITALS
Precautionary Measures are Advocated in Article Appearing in Outdoor Life Today.

Replying to an attack on the movement for local tuberculosis hospitals made by the Christian Science Church, Dr. Herman M. Biggs, State Commissioner of Health of New York, says in a statement published today through the Journal of the Outdoor Life, the official organ of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, that tuberculosis is an infectious disease and that every precaution known should be taken especially for the protection of young children. He particularly urges local hospitals.

The occasion for Dr. Biggs' statement is the recent wide dissemination of an article purporting to show that tuberculosis was not infectious. By quoting only a part of a medical paper written by Dr. E. R. Baldwin, of Saranac Lake, the Christian Scientists have given the impression that tuberculosis is not infectious when, as a matter of fact, Dr. Baldwin laid stress on the extreme danger of the disease to children.

“Tuberculosis is an infectious and communicable disease,” said Dr. Biggs. “No age is exempt, and no one is immune against tuberculosis infection, but differences in susceptibility exist at different ages. The frequency of infection increases rapidly from the first year until at the age of fifteen perhaps 75 per cent of the population show a positive reaction to tuberculin, although only a small proportion have signs of the disease which can be detected by other means.

“The conviction has been gradually strengthened that the first infection from tuberculosis often occurs during infancy and childhood. It seems probable that many of those who develop the disease in adult life have carried the latent infection since childhood, and have no recent and new infection when the symptoms of the disease appear.

“It has also been found by experiment that it is difficult to re-infect an animal that has already been inoculated with tuberculosis. Hence, it is inferred that some degree of immunity may be thus produced that may serve to ward off bacilli which might find lodgment in an individual not previously infected. Therefore, it will be understood how the mild infections, which are healed and present in most persons who have reached adult age may, and presumably do offer some protection against further limited invasions of the tubercle bacilli. While persons are in good health the protection thus offered is an advantage having some resemblance to vaccination, but only very limited in nature and not complete. Prolonged or intimate exposure, however, or exposure to a virulent type of tuberculosis may result in a new infection, even of those who have overcome a previous mild infection. It is, moreover, by no means certain that in debilitated conditions due to other diseases, to dissipation or to bad environment, new infections may not occur. We know positively that the first childhood infection may under such circumstances break out anew and thus become a doubtful advantage a real sword with two edges.

“Considering the natural and acquired resistance to infection by adults, much unreasonable fear or ‘phthisiophobia’ has prevailed in late years. Because there is no precaution too great for the protection of the young and delicate, this does not justify healthy adults in exaggerated fears for their own safety. In view of the present wide distribution of the disease, and lack of adequate means for segregation, some exposure

is about two blocks distant from the Bates home.

During this delay the flames gained rapid headway and by the time water was thrown, the entire second story was in flames. The loss is estimated at $1,500. Some of the household goods were saved, with the exception of those on the second floor. The flames at the start seemed to be next to the roof in the north-west corner of the house.

Mr. Bates is suffering from tuberculosis and because of the exposure suffered in moving him from the house, fears are expressed for his life. He was in an upstairs room and it was necessary to carry him from the burning house. He was taken to the Foulton home and a physician called.

The alarm was sent in by telephone and the department was on the way before the fire bell rang. The damage to the house would no doubt have been light had not the plug been frozen. The Reynolds and Clifford factory was closed during the fire and the men went over and assisted.

The Federals resorted to the wireless and Tris Speaker, star outfielder, had a message telling him the Federals were "ready to do business with the boys" at the Knickerbocker.

Pres. Lemmon of the Boston club said he was absolutely confident that all the players would remain with organized baseball. Sam Crawford said: "Money talks." All denied having received offers from the Feds.
